

Rate it! - tell us about products you use

Rate it! is the website that offers disabled people a space to share their views and reviews of products that can help make it easier to live an independent life. The website has been developed by three disability-led organisations: Research Institute for Disabled Consumers (RiDC), Leicestershire Centre for Integrated Living and Enabled by Design.

Rate it! provides an online space where disabled people can research and review products all in one place. The aim is to help people make more informed choices when researching or buying products.

The Rate it! website is: www.rateit.ridc.org.uk

We really need you to get involved! If you have some experience of products that either help or hinder independent living, here is your chance to share your knowledge.

- Think of one or more product(s) that you have bought over the past year or so.
- Fill in the following questionnaire.
- We will upload the results onto the Rate it! website as soon as possible.
- You can remain anonymous if you wish - leave the name field blank or use a fictional name.

Please fill in this form and answer the questions as if you were filling in a usual review. Thank you!
