

Gear, Gadgets and Gizmos podcast notes 2 – Simon Minty

Simon Minty has delivered training and consultancy in the field of equalities since 1997. He has personal experience of disability, being of short stature and of limited mobility.

Based in London, Simon works throughout the UK and internationally. Simon's passion for equality, his knowledge of disability, his ability to listen and address the issue in hand combined with an infectious sense of humour have enabled him to successfully work with clients from a small NGO to a multi-national investment bank.

He's produced numerous videos and co-produced and performed in the sell-out Edinburgh Fringe comedy show Abnormally Funny People in 2005, returning again in 2015. He is a host of BBC Ouch podcast and the Phil & Simon Show

A keen traveller, he won the Travel X Travel Writer of the Year 1999 – Best Television Feature for his Channel 4 travel programme in China.

Simon mentioned the following products:

Go Go Elite Traveller Plus <http://bit.ly/2W08fxS>

Folding Step Stool Folding Step Stool

Uber App <https://apple.co/2VWNwen>

City Maps <https://apple.co/2VXExtg>

Google Maps Step Free Access article <http://bit.ly/2VVRe87>

Rate it! is a product review website by and for disabled people. It's an online space for you to share views of products (specialist and mainstream), hacks, and tips to make life easier.

If you're a disabled or older person living in the UK, use your knowledge and experience to do consumer research - join the RiDC research panel